Everything in the universe is made up of an omnipresent energy in all beings and things. And this subtle energy can be felt and measured in real-time by anyone who is receptive intuitively or through scientific equipment.

Mother Earth naturally contains various energy fields, and when a new built form is introduced, there is a deviation in the existing energies of the land. When such an imbalanced built form is inhabited, where the energies of the building are not in harmony with the energies of the land, it leads to unpleasant conditions in the occupants' profession, health, wealth, relationship etc.

The traditional science of architecture was based upon harmonising energies of the occupant to the land, thus arriving at the ideal proportions, location and orientation of built form, doors, windows, furniture etc.

Space Harmonising process for proposed spaces

The land is healed off the past energies.

Water channels for well / bore-well is identified.

The proportion of the proposed spaces,
doors and windows is marked on the land with respect to the energy of the occupants and the land.

This is measured on-site and translated into a schematic drawing for further design development

The space we live in absorbs the energy of our words, thoughts and deeds. This energy starts accumulating ( especially in corners ) over time. This could be your own house or office, or any space which you use every day.

If you are moving into an already occupied space, like a rented house or office, you are moving into an energy field left behind by the previous users. This is why most times people tend to fall sick, face financial losses or meet with other difficult situations once they move into a pre-occupied space.

Through the process of harmonising, we can visualise the events of the past in the space by the previous occupants, leading to the blocked energies.

While there are various forms of energy healing, Divine Healing is considered the highest and the most powerful form. The entire process is divine lead, and the healer is only a transmitter of the divine energy.

Unlike other forms of healing, the healer, as much as the healee/space is unaware of all the details. The healing process works in direct proportion to the healee's sense of surrender and gratitude to the divine.

Kaushik Kumar, a conservation architect by profession, has been chosen to become a channel for Divine Healing, with blessings from his Gurus and the divine.
